Airway, 1 Mile From Mouth, Was Ample Supplied With Fresh Air

LOWEST PLACE IN MINE

Everettsville Is An Armed
Camp Now; National Guards
Have Pitched Tents

By S. I. Neiman
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

EVERETTSTOWN, W. Va., May 3.—Faint hope that forty to fifty of the entombed miners in the Federal No. 3 Mine of the New England Fuel and Transportation Co., may have escaped the deadly gas which swept through the mine after the terrific explosion Saturday was revived here today when veteran miners suggested that a group might have taken refuge in a battered airway about a mile and a half from the mine mouth.

The airway, known as North Four, amply supplied with fresh air which it is believed would not be affected by gaseous fumes elsewhere in the mine, will hold forty or fifty men, miners said, and could easily have been reached by that number working nearby.

The airway is the lowest place in the mine, and probably is slowly filling with water, however, it is believed, due to the fact that the huge line pumps were stopped by the blast. If the airway can be reached by rescue crews within three or four days, it is felt that any men who might have taken refuge there may be rescued alive.

Everettsville was an armed camp today, companies of West Virginia National Guards having pitched camp near the mine, their mess kitchens serving meals to the mine rescue crews. Red Cross nurses were on hand ready to administer first aid to any miners who may be taken from the blast wrecked mine alive.

Mute evidence of the force of the blast which shook the mine Saturday presented itself to rescue crews when they came upon the crushed bodies of two horses used in the mine. The explosion pierced the side of a cliff nearly two miles from the pit mouth, clouds of smoke issuing from the hillside, witnesses said.

Huge Mine Fire Is Raging At Kingmont, W. Va.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 3 (I.N.S.).—One of the worst mine fires on record in West Virginia was raging today in the Virginia and Pittsburgh Coal and Coke Co. mine at Kingmont, near here. The official report of the state mine inspectors states that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Although 250 men normally are employed in the mine, all escaped unhurt. Only the fact that the mine is not of the gaseous type, prevented a serious explosion, Robert M. Lambie, chief state mine inspector, who is here to direct rescue work at the Everettsville Mine, said.

Fire was discovered at two different air intakes, which could not have been caused by wiring or spontaneous combustion, the report to Lambie stated. Authorities are investigating.

Resolutions of Respect

As a mark of respect the Board of Trustees of the Bristol Methodist Episcopal Church, has adopted the following minute and resolution, upon the death of their fellow-member and treasurer, John K. Young:

The members of the Board of Trustees of the Bristol Methodist Episcopal Church desire to place on record their sorrow over the death of their lamented Brother, John K. Young, and a deep sense of the loss sustained by his death, not only by the church of which he was for so long a time an active and faithful member, but to the community as well, of which he was a highly respected citizen.

Taking up his residence in Bristol forty-four years ago, he immediately connected himself with the church. A few years later he was elected treasurer of the Board of Trustees, which position he has filled faithfully and acceptably for a period of thirty-five years, and which position he still held at the time of his death. For many years he was active in the work of the Sunday School and served as superintendent for a period of ten years.

As a citizen of the community, he was highly respected as one, who in his life and conduct, exhibited the elements of good citizenship. In his young manhood he was active in the town's affairs and served upon the local public school board as its secretary for several years. He was active also in several secret societies. In all his acts and conduct while in public office, he was honest and faithful and exhibited those sterling qualities which were so characteristic of him.

The death of such a man as he, is not only a loss to the church in whose service he gave the greater part of his life, but to the community at large. In these days when radicalism is corrupting citizenship and American ideals are being undermined by the Communist propaganda which is being introduced into the country, it is a satisfaction, aside from the sorrow which is felt, to view the termination of a long and useful life, which has been true to American principles and has left behind an example of loyalty which is worthy of emulation.

The death of Brother John K. Young marks the passing of the last of those men whose peculiar type and character portrayed them as the patriarchs of Bristol Methodism. He really belonged to that band of loyal patriarchs which in years gone by comprised such men as James Bruden, William Kinsey, Jacob Young, Joseph Foster, William Bradford, Charles York, J. Merrick Brown, James Foster and Egbert Street. Together with Charles Foster, C. Wesley Milnor and others he carried that peculiar type of Christian manhood down through succeeding generations to the present day.

While his death, because of his close associations with the Board of Trustees, falls upon us as a personal bereavement, yet we bow in obedience to God's will and are thankful that a kindly providence permitted him to live such a long and useful life. We shall revere his memory, and to his example of fealty and loyalty to Christ and His Church, we shall recommend emulation to generations yet to come.

RESOLVED, That our tenderest sympathy be extended to his wife and children, whom we feel assured will find in higher consolation, that comfort and support which weak humanity in an hour like this, is unable to give.

RESOLVED, That a copy of this minute be sent to the wife and children of our deceased Brother and that a copy be published in the Bristol papers.

MUCH DAMAGE WAS DONE TO FRUIT TREES

Recent Freezing Weather Hurt
Trees, Says Co. Agent
Greenawalt

CATTLE TESTS MADE

DOYLESTOWN, May 3.—County Agent Greenawalt is less optimistic about the damage done to fruit trees in the county by the recent freezing weather.

Damage to fruit, he says, will be at least 25 per cent., but it cannot be accurately told at this time.

Around Penn's Manor, where there are large asparagus interests, the crop of the day of the freeze was ruined.

Mr. Greenawalt had a bit of good news for the dairymen of Wrightstown township who have signed up for an area test.

He learned this week from Dr. Bruner, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, in charge of t. b. eradication, that it is planned to give the area test in that township in June. Seventy-two herds, with 500 cattle, are awaiting the test.

Throughout the county a number of dairymen are having individual tests made as a result of the deficiency appropriation being granted by the Legislature. Reports indicate a heavy showing of tubercular cattle.

Speaking of this, County Agent Greenawalt called attention to the fact that dairymen have found the tests of advantage. In Lancaster and Chester counties, where more than 50 per cent. of the cattle were found to be infected by t. b., the dairymen, after the cleanup and purchase of new cattle with indemnities, found they had fewer but better cattle giving more milk.

Students of the National Farm School this week were given an interesting talk on "The Relation of Insects to the Trend of Agriculture," by G. F. MacLeod, extension entomologist. Mr. MacLeod enumerated the most disastrous of the pests and explained methods of eradication which are used.

Committees Have Been Named

THE GOAL SET IS $1,200

Friday and Saturday evenings, July 22nd and 23rd, and July 29th and 30th, are the dates selected for the eighth annual carnival to be staged by the Eddington Improvement Association.

The general committee was recently appointed and chairmen announced. It is the aim of the association to make this carnival a banner one, and it desires the hearty support of all members.

The sums realized yearly at these affairs are used to assist in defraying the cost of street and road lighting. The bill for one year totals over $1200. Last year $751.99 was cleared at the carnival, but the goal set for this July is $1200.

Donation books will be distributed, and residents of Eddington will be asked to assist in this way. Those interested are using many means to advertise the event, and hope that this will add materially to the profits in the end.

Several new features have been suggested, upon which the committee is now working.

PUPILS RETURN OVER 1,700 QUESTIONNAIRES

Co-operated Well in Fire Prevention Campaign; Other Work Scheduled

ESSAY IS GIVEN

At the office of the superintendent of the Bristol public schools, over 1700 questionnaires have been turned in from the pupils of the different school buildings throughout the town.

This co-operation was given by the students of Bristol in connection with the campaign conducted during Fire Prevention Week, and a copy of the questionnaire is shown elsewhere in this edition. All were well filled out and the answers showed much thought.

These slips will be turned over to Borough Engineer, John S. Roberts, who will go over same; and where great hazards are mentioned the matter will be looked into immediately.

The teachers in the several buildings are still giving fire prevention talks, and a few fire drills will be conducted at the Jefferson avenue building this week.

At the Bath street school lectures given by Francis Dugan, Charles Ludwig, Robert Clements and Esther Louderbough, were much enjoyed.

An essay relative to fire prevention, written by Francis Dugan, of the Bath street building, follows:

What is fire prevention week?

How many of you know?
It is a week of every year taken up on talks to the effect that you must not be careless. It was started about fourteen years ago by our government, because of the great total of loss by fire in the United States.

Here are some things that start many fires: Playing with matches; building bon fires; letting gas burn; keeping oily rags around; letting old rags, paper, rubbish lay around the house or yard.

Some people do not know what to do in case of fire. If it is in a room you should close all doors and windows and not let a draught in. If it is your clothes, do not run. Take some woolen garment, blanket or other woolen article, wrap it around you to smother the flame. Be sure you do not get cotton instead of wool.

How many know how to put a fire alarm in? Did you ever do it? How many know where the nearest box is to your home, your school? You run to the nearest fire box, pick up a stone, break the glass, pull the lever down once and let it go. The best thing for a little child to do is to run to the street and shout "fire" for all he is worth. Never shout fire or put a fire alarm in if there is no fire; for many firemen are killed and hurt going and coming to a fire.

In 1925, if every man, woman and child would have given $5, it would just covered the total loss done by fire. It has dropped now to $4.25. Holland has only about ten cents.

How do you strike a match, toward you or away from you? You should strike it away from you. It is the safest way.

Only safety matches should be used, which can be lighted only on the box. They should be kept away from rats, mice, stoves and small children.

All lamps should be kept very clean, and you should use oil in them, instead of gasoline. Lamps should have heavy bottoms so they will not fall over. They should never be set on the end of a table or near a window, where the curtain might blow onto it.

You should never build a bon fire on a windy day.
If you ever go camping in the woods or stop in an automobile to start a camp fire, always make sure it is out before you go away or to bed because this could easily start a forest fire.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley and daughters, Clara, Pearl and Agnes, of Edgely, passed Sunday at the home of Mrs. Stanley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, of 715 Garden street.

$30,000 DAMAGE DONE BY FIRES IN SHORT PERIOD

Three Large Blazes Occur In Bucks County Within 48 Hours

CAUSES INVESTIGATED

Loss of $22,000 Sustained
When Barn of Stefan Flager,
Newtown Twp., Burns

Damage to the extent of $30,000 was done by fire in Bucks County within a period of less than 48 hours during the past few days.

Yesterday at 11:45 as four men were seated cutting potatoes on the second floor of the barn of Stefan Flager, Newtown Township, smoke was seen to issue from the floor.

As the quartet rushed out to summon help and endeavor to extinguish the blaze, it was found that practically the entire first floor was in flames, the blaze evidently having started in the end of the structure near the silos.

The barn was located about one mile north of Newtown, and was one of the largest in that section of the county, and from its location on a hill could be seen for a great distance. The large barn, together with the two silos, one small out-building, and a quantity of farm machinery were completely destroyed.

The loss has been placed at $22,000, it being partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire has not as yet been determined, but representatives of the Bucks County Firemen's Association are working on a clue that may lead to the discovery of the cause.

Firemen who were summoned from Newtown, were unable to do anything to save the buildings, owing to the fact such headway had been gained.

The roof of a double frame house owned by Miss Elizabeth Moon, at Woodbourne, became ignited on Monday shortly before noon.

Fire companies, which were called from Langhorne, South Langhorne, and Hulmeville, were able to pump water from a nearby creek, and saved the main structure.

The roof was entirely destroyed and other portions of the building damaged by smoke and water; but the structures of the lower floors were saved owing to the quick work of the firemen. The loss is estimated at $600.

About one-half hour after a man was seen to leave the premises, the stone house owned by two brothers by the name of Branick, located two miles south of Quakertown, on the Bethlehem Pike, was discovered to be afire, Saturday night.

The blaze was first seen at 8 o'clock, shortly after neighbors had seen a figure leave the farm.

The fire was confined to the second and third floors and the roof, the balance of the house being saved from destruction.

Damage done is placed at over $7000, it being partly covered by insurance.

U. S. TAKES LEAD IN AIR

International air races have shown year after year that the American airplane motor was inferior to some designed abroad. Races were lost to foreign competitors not because the latter were better flyers but because their engines were faster and sturdier.

That this country has now produced a motor that knows no peers in aviation is seen in the non-stop flight of 4000 miles in fifty-one hours by which the American aviators Chamberlin and Acosta broke the world's endurance record.

It may be said, of course, that long-distance flying in circles is no more like a transatlantic or transcontinental jump than is President Coolidge's electrical horse like a steeplechase. But the truth is otherwise. Flying is flying. One course is the same as another, other things being equal.

Americans are more satisfied with G. M. Bellanca, designer of the plane, and the flyers, Acosta and Chamberlin, than are the Italians with their ace, Commander de Pinedo. And not without justification. The longest of the Italian's jumps was less than half the distance traversed by the American plane.

This is not merely a matter of breaking another record. It means there has been developed a plane promising reasonably safe transatlantic transportation by air and victory for American entrants in forthcoming aviation meets and bringing a little nearer to this country the threat of hostile invasion by air.

The nation can see in this achievement one more proof that the United States does not grant supremacy in the art of flying to any of its national competitors.

PERENNIAL TOPIC

If man can be defined as the political animal, the American is that by eminence. He far surpasses Metemich, who said his spirit always wrestled with tomorrow, for the American political spirit often wrestles with next year.

Just now this spirit is wrestling with 1928, when will be decided whether President Coolidge will seek renomination, and will be able to get it if he wants it, and who will be aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination. Although every voter has settled these things in his own mind they will be discussed wherever men congregate until the national conventions have met and adjourned.

No doubt the great majority of electors already have picked the man they want to vote for, but that will not prevent them from casting a ballot for another if their choice is lost in the convention shuffle.

Political observers said last year that when the president returned from his vacation at Paul Smith's he would let it be known whether he would seek a second nomination. He didn't. So the political prophets now say he will reach a decision while vacationing somewhere out West this year.

On the other side of the party fence, the possible nomination of Governor Smith, of New York, by the Democrats is the principal topic of conversation and conjecture. But he is not alone in the Democratic picture. That luckless party approaches another national convention divided by several major issues into twice as many factions and rival candidacies.

A hustler has no time for bad luck.

HEALTHY OLD MEN AND WOMEN NEED NEVER HAVE GRAY HAIR

As Long As Color Glands Remain Normal and Active Plenty Of Pigment Will Keep Hair Its Natural Shade

IF HAIR IS FADED AND STREAKED WITH GRAY BEGIN REVIVING COLOR GLANDS

Simple Tonic Starts Youthful Color Returning Again

Everybody knows if their color glands and hair roots are active and normal they will continue indefinitely to have rich, natural colored hair entirely free of gray and off-colored locks.

A doctor several years ago asked himself this question: "Why not rub a stimulating tonic into the scalp that will revive, strengthen and tone up those inactive glands so that nature in her own inimitable way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes—surely the hair will then again resume its original, natural, beautiful shades of youth regardless of the user's age or the condition of their hair?"

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY

The doctor's search for a tonic that would accomplish this purpose led him into endless experiments, but the final result was worth it. He didn't want a dye or tint and it of course must be harmless and something that could be used for years and years without the slightest injury to hair or scalp.

Under the name of Lea's Hair Tonic, anyone may now purchase the tonic he finally perfected. For several years now hairdressers and people scattered all over the country have been using it. Results are so natural, gradual and nice that men as well as women use it.

It doesn't stain the scalp. One's friends seldom notice the gradual change and to test what it will do one needs only to apply it a week or so to some small spot and watch results.

Users have been amazed at the younger appearance that comes with the disappearance of gray hairs from their head. If any reader desires to try a bottle of Lea's Hair Tonic on the maker's absolute guarantee of complete satisfaction they should pin a dollar bill to this advertisement and send it to the Lea's Tonic Company, Brentwood, Md., with their name and address plainly written. A generous sized bottle will be sent prepaid anywhere. Leading druggists have Lea's Hair Tonic, $1.00 per bottle.—(Adv.)

Matinee Ladies

BY William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, a poverty-stricken engineering student in his senior year, who is working his way through college by whatever jobs he can get at the college employment bureau, is informed by his two chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—by working as dancing partners, of afternoons, for Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it is a way to make a living. His landlady threatens him with eviction for unpaid rent.

CHAPTER I—Continued

As the door slammed behind Mrs. O'Sully, Bob's eyes, full of trouble, rested upon the faces of his chums.

"Now you've got to take the job, Bob!" exclaimed Freddy and Arch in unison. "Come on, be a sport. If you don't come, some one else will!"

Bob gulped hard. Pride went down with that gulp—pride and honest conviction. Expediency took a hard fall out of his self-respect; even so, there was a lot of courage and stoutness in his manner as he said quietly: "Lead me to your damned old inn. Henceforth, I'm a dancing partner for matinee ladies, young and old—at fifty per!"

"Now you're talking like an intelligent and sensible college senior, if not a human being, should talk!" chorried Freddy, while Arch, as his outward show of joy at Bob's acceptance of the job, bowed a heavy engineering tone on Bob's head.

Arch bounced a heavy engineering tone on Bob's head.

tumble shindy, which brought Mrs. O'Sully back into the room post haste with an indignant threat to eject all three boys, bag and book, on grounds of social undesirability, let alone financial.

Mrs. O'Sully was appeased. Then Bob asked dubiously:

"What do I start on my career as a male butterfly for the delectation of the idle female rich?"

"Right away—pronto—if not sooner," declared Arch. "This afternoon. That's the only time we work. See what a cinch of a job it is? These rich and jazzy janes tell their trusting husbands—who are probably keeping a couple of chorus girls apiece on a string!—that they attend the matinee. Then they skip out to nearby roadhouses and jazz joints, of which our Palsado Inn is a noteworthy example, and dance the afternoons away with young guys like us. Some of the bolder ones go to hotels in town to dance, but the most of them want secrecy, and like the outlying places."

"Where is the place that I—we—will work?"

"Over on the Palsades. We'll beat it down to 129th street and take the Fort Lee ferry. Then it's only a short ride on a bus. But come on now, get a wiggle on, old left tackle, or we'll be late for the matinee." And the red hot mamas don't like to wait for their pretty little college boys!

"Grrrrr darn!" gritted Bob, disgusted at the sophisticated irony in his chum's description of the job and the people.

CHAPTER II

But now Bob Ward was committed to a job as dancing entertainer. He couldn't hedge. The wolf was so close. His college degree went more to him than anything else in the world. It was within his grasp. Just a few short weeks of careful study and planning and management. It would be a burning shame if his poverty were to ash the sheepskin away from his shining fingers, at this last spurt, regardless of the cost in humbled pride, he must earn enough to keep clear of debt and disaster until a coveted reward of four long of the usual run of working student situations.

Bob Ward, as superlative a football player as the famous old prep school of Dean Academy, in Franklin, had ever sent thundering toward the enemy goal lines, might have found things made easy for him in the way of scholarships at many a famous college if he had been so minded. But in Bob's old head on young and wide shoulders, football remained always subordinated in its rightful place—as a passing, if existing and useful phase of school years. Bob's objective in life lay far beyond the white gridiron lines, the crosshairs of autumn fields, the far-flung Yankee gorges, on remote Australian mining wastes. All hitherto inaccessible until reduced to the everyday ken of mankind by his engineering genius. So Bob Ward dreamed. And so to him, not the acclaim of crowds out for a Saturday afternoon Roman Holiday, but the hard-earned, hard-won, high scholastic standing was what counted. Regardless of all other factors, he had selected the college that seemed best fitted to his circumstances, to his plans, and to his ambitions for a sound and thorough drilling in the fundamentals of his profession. Two years running he earned a scholarship, in competitive examination, by dint of mental, not football, powers. Then piling complications upon him until his work fell below its wonted grade, and threatened to disrupt his college career.

Troubles at home that required the donation of all the five hundred dollars reserve his father had been able to give him. Deaths of his mother, his father. A bitter junior year of scumpling and saving, meeting tuition and board costs, denying himself fraternity memberships and all the material joys of undergraduate life; fighting until a few dollars had been hoarded in the bank again.

Then, two months ago, more trouble at home. A widowed sister killed in an accident; her orphaned nephew, financial assistance. Out went the meagre bank account, in the full generosity of Bob's heart. (To be continued)

Observations About Events, Persons and Things Which Are of General Interest. : : :

THERE ARE on every hand clubs and societies of all kinds. Some have been organized for the purpose of creating a friendlier feeling and better fellowship between the members; others have as their main purpose the idea of assisting the unfortunate; while still more are organized for the furtherance of some specific cause.

There is a little hand in South Langhorne, however, of an entirely different nature, which has been heard of quite frequently during the past couple of years. It is generally referred to as a hiking club.

It has been the custom of the members to participate in a long walk or hike once each month, the time usually chosen being on an evening when the moon is full or nearly so.

Starting out early in the evening the group, a number of young men and young women, will traverse the road to a designated place, usually where food might be procured. Their destination is usually several miles from their homes in South Langhorne. Here they partake of light refreshments, before starting on their return trip.

Very seldom does the condition of the ground deter them from their monthly walks. As long as the sky overhead is clear, with Luna shining down, it matters not how much snow may be underfoot. The tang of a brisk wind only adds to the pleasure of the jaunt.

The same route is not taken two months in succession, for each time the destination lies at a point near a different town or village. In this manner the hikers become acquainted with the roads and villages of Bucks County.

Not only are they benefitted by becoming acquainted with the various portions of their own county, and by the spirit of comradeship created, but such exercise means much toward assistance in keeping them fit.

Would that there were more hiking clubs in the country! This exercise is considered one of the best known; and it is far better for one's health to take frequent jaunts of this kind than to depend on a gas-buggy to convey one to every desired destination.

The Lincoln A. C. lost its first game of the season to DeLong's Stars on Sunday, by the score of 14-7, at the Farragut avenue field.

The field was in bad shape and perhaps that accounted for the ragged support of the Lincoln's ace.

IF YOU HAVE AN ACHE OR PAIN
LET THIS EXPERT HELP YOUHE LOOKS AFTER WALTER JOHNSON, COVELESKIE
AND OTHERS OF WASHINGTON BALL TEAM

For Twenty Years He's Been Relieving Lame Back, Sore, Stiff Muscles, Swollen Joints, Sprains, Achy Feet, Rheumatic Pains and Kindred Ills of Big League Athletes

Greatest Expert Living On Keeping Athletes In Perfect ConditionTRY HIS METHOD ON YOUR ACHE OR PAINS

We want to introduce the reader to Mike Martin, who probably knows more about keeping a person in fighting condition than anyone else living. For 20 years, at various universities and with the New York Yankees, Cincinnati Reds and now as trainer of the Washington Ball Club, Mike Martin has won fame as a lightning quick fixer of sprains, pains, aches, etc.

Mike Martin is a genius. He can take men claimed to be too old, stiff or rheumatic to play baseball at all and make them as frisky, vigorous, supple and quick as a boy. Mike Martin knows his business—ask Walter Johnson, Coveleskie, Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Herb Pennock, or any of the big stars. They know.

HE CAN HELP YOU
Mike Martin has had a little folder printed, telling how he quickly banishes stiff, swollen joints, achy lame backs or feet, various rheumatic pains, etc. He has arranged with leading druggists here in town to sell you generous sized bottles of the liniment they use at the ball park. He has made it a long time for his own use. Athletes on other teams kept Mike busy making his "Mike Martin Liniment." Trainers, coaches, colleges, big league teams all over the country buy it by the gallon from Mike. Now, Mike Martin, swamped with demands for this liniment and directions how to use it, has employed a big sales company to distribute it and they are supplying all the druggists—Mike still superintends the making of it—during odd times between acting as trainer of the 1924 and 1925 American League champion Washington Ball Club.

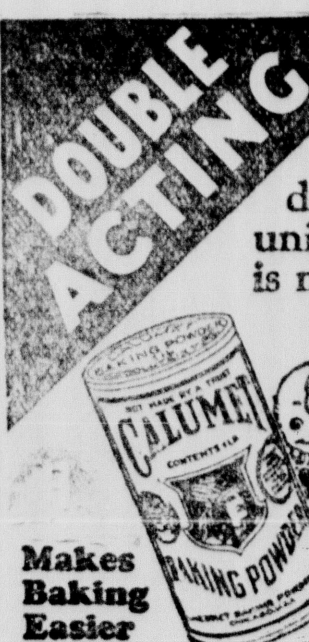

ASK THE DRUGGIST
If your druggist hasn't secured a few bottles of Mike Martin's Liniment, ask

MIKE MARTIN, Trainer
Washington Ball Club

him to get it. There is no other liniment like it. It works like greased lightning even in cases of chronic lameness, swellings, stiffness or pains, yet is so mild it can be used on a baby's skin. Mike Martin's Liniment is unquestionably the most effective, quick, sure, up-to-date remedy made. Big league players couldn't afford to fool with weaker, slower remedies. No one else should.

If your druggist has some remedy of his own he prefers to sell—just write Mike Martin, Trainer, Ball Park, Washington, D. C. 65c for folder and two ounce bottle of liniment or $1 for large four ounce bottle.—(Adv. 25.)

Q. Why does Web Cord add to the mileage of United States Tires?

A. Consider first what happens in a balloon tire—the extent to which the side-wall structure must constantly bend and recover. Combined flexibility and strength are demanded far beyond the needs of high pressure tires.

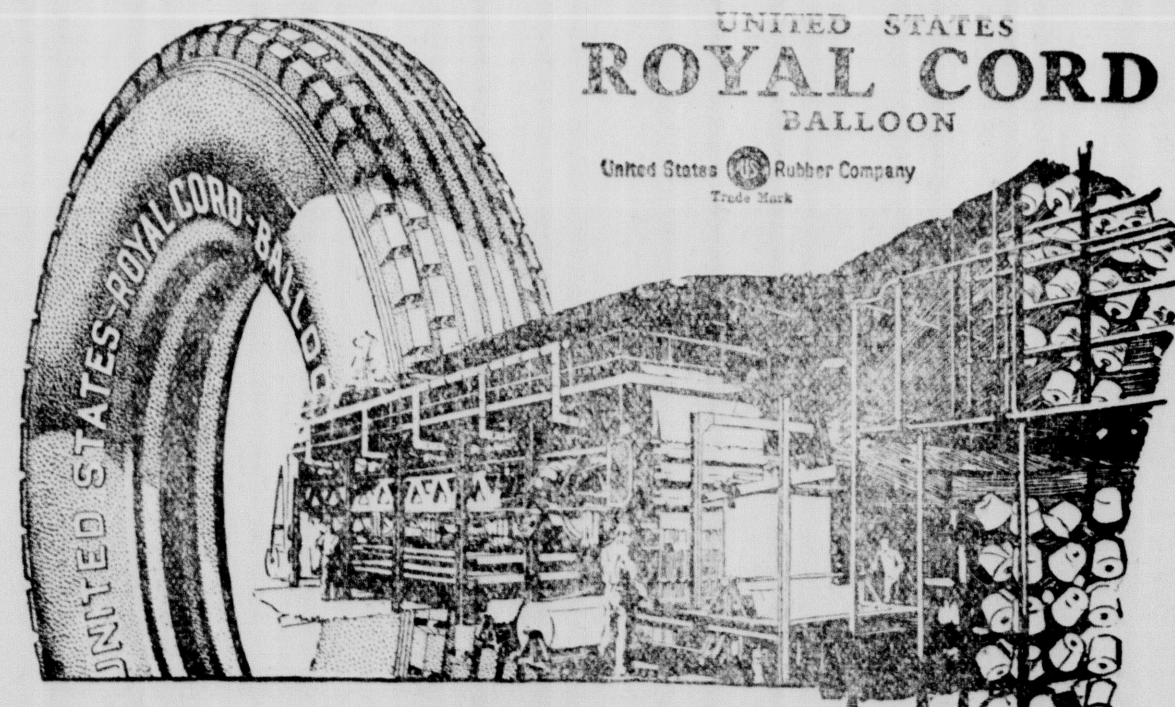

Web Cord is the completely satisfying answer to these requirements. By soaking the cord in pure, liquid latex, each tiny fibre of the cotton is insulated with rubber. And this more intimate union between cord and rubber is accomplished without the use of weakening chemical solvents.

Furthermore, the latex webs the cords together without the use of cross-tie threads. One of the major causes of internal friction is removed.

The result is maximum strength with maximum flexibility—which means maximum mileage.
